USS Cyclops Disappears
March 1918
By Seamus

The Cyclops, a 19,360-ton coal ship, disappeared in the Bermuda Triangle without a trace with a crew of 300. It had a radio but no SOS came. No debris has been found. The disappearance has no known reason except perhaps to the 300 people on it. A search is still on.

Escape from Alcatraz?

June 2\textsuperscript{nd}, 1962
By Disappearing Acts Class

Three men have disappeared from Alcatraz! Frank Morris and John and Clarence Anglin escaped by digging holes through the deteriorated cement. They fooled the guards by creating fake heads, which make it look like the men were in bed. Life jackets and a raft, which were made from raincoats, were meant to help with the escape.

Allen West, another prisoner, bragged that he planned the whole getaway and is now in isolation. West claimed that the escapees were headed for Angel Island, but they have not been found. The search will continue even though the men may be dead. Alcatraz officials warned San Francisco residents to beware of these dangerous criminals.

Not even “The Rock” is inescapable!
